16 Introductory Comments

18 In a scheduled telephone interview on May 10, 2004, from 11:00-11:53 AM PST, between the 19 applicant and examiner Ms. Lun-Yi Lao and supervisor Mr. Bipin Shalwala, it was agreed by all 20 parties that a modification to the independent claim (claim 1) of the above-referenced application 21 would be acceptable under the following two conditions:
22

- 23 A) Applicant will amend claim 1 to specify that the system's wearable pixelated apparel is 24 "made entirely out of" highly flexible and lightweight pixelated material (accepting 25 connectors, seams and the like), 26 B) Applicant will provide references from the specification which support the apparel being 27 comprised entirely out of the highly flexible and lightweight pixelated material. See 28 "REMARKS" section sub-titled "Chronological Excerpts From Specification Supporting 29 Proposed Claim 1 Amendment" for nine references describing apparel which is 30 comprised of flexible pixelated display material.
31

32 Before 11:00 AM on May 10, 2004, an email cover letter and PDF attachment was emailed to 33 supervisor Shalwala. The PDF provided a proposed amendment to claim 1. A printed copy of the 34 PDF contents is separately attached with this mailing and titled "APPENDIX A." The email
35 cover letter which provided explanatory support of the Metcalf invention as 'a system' 36 differentiated from the various display screens (non-systems) of the relied upon and referenced 37 prior art is separately attached with this mailing and titled "APPENDIX B."
38

39 A copy of the amended claim 1 and all other claims is separately attached and titled 40 "AMENDMENT TO THE CLAIMS" (Pages 1-7). The first five lines of independent claims 29 41 and 30 (indicated as "currently amended") have been amended to read the same as the currently 42 amended independent claim 1, and in view of the eighty-nine previously-cited references in the 43 Metcalf invention referring to the use and display of video content, claim the use and display of 44 color and grayscale video content respectively.
